DICK GREGORY SPEAKS AT U. LOWELL

LOWELL, MASS. - Author-activist Dick Gregory speaks at Cumnock Hall, Monday, December 4 at 8:00 PM, sponsored by the cultural committee of the University of Lowell Student Activities Commission. The general public is invited and admission is $1.00. Tickets will be available at the door.

Gregory, a familiar figure on college campuses across the United States, is the author of many books including Nigger, Dick Gregory's Political Primer, Dick Gregory's Natural Diet for Folks Who Eat, and Dick Gregory's Bible Tales. A noted activist, he has been in the forefront of activities on behalf of peace, hunger, and Civil Rights since the late 1960's. Appearing at the campus in 1975 Gregory discussed various topics, such as Watergate, hunger, and the Kennedy and King Assassinations.
